SELECTED GRANTS/PROJECTS AT RAND CORPORATION

Community-Police Relations: Creating Dialogue via a Tabletop Exercise
Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND plans to refine and test a community-police relations tabletop exercise that RAND has already piloted twice. The exercise starts a meaningful dialogue around race and bias and will culminate in a toolkit to guide others in similar efforts. The effort will first be piloted in Long Beach, CA and then two other sites still to be determined. Sponsor: The AAA-ICDR Foundation. February 1, 2021-January 31, 2023.

National Youth Gang Survey.

Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND will conduct a survey with a representative sample of law enforcement agencies in the United States to gather information on their assessments of gangs, gang activity, and gang membership in their jurisdictions. Sponsor: National Institute of Justice, Department of Justice. January 1, 2021-December 31, 2023.

Evaluability Assessment of the Weinberg Center for Elder Justice's Shelter Model for Elder Abuse.

Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND will assess the potential to conduct a rigorous outcome and process evaluation of the Weinberg Center. The work will involve identifying available data and a comparison group that could support a quasi-experimental research design and determine other needs of a rigorous evaluation. The work will conclude with a decision on whether the model can support an outcome evaluation. Sponsor: National Institute of Justice, Department of Justice. January 1, 2021-March 31, 2022.

Officer-Involved Shootings: A Roadmap for Change.

Role: Co-Principal Investigator with Melissa Labriola.

This work consists of a scoping exercise to detail what is known about officer-involved shootings from the start of an incident to its resolution for the agency and officer (both criminal and civil). The scoping will result in an evidence-based research agenda, with the goal of identifying areas where producing new, rigorous evidence could have the largest impact on officer-involved shootings. Sponsor: Private donor to RAND Corporation. March-September 2020.

Evaluation of NYPD's Neighborhood Policing Philosophy.

Role: Co-Principal Investigator with Melissa Labriola.

RAND is conducting an extensive impact and process evaluation of NYPD's Neighborhood Policing Philosophy. The evaluation will inform the field of policing research and help the NYPD continue to improve Neighborhood Policing. Sponsor: NYC Opportunity, for New York Police Dept. November 2018-April 2021.

National Collaborative on Gun Violence Research (NCGVR).

Role: Research Director

NCGVR Director: Andrew Morral

NCGVR will support carefully selected, rigorous research designed to broaden agreement on the facts associated with gun policy, and support development of fair and effective policies. The collaborative is administered by RAND, which develops targeted requests for research proposals at the direction of an independent Research Advisory Committee (RAC). Sponsor: Laura and John Arnold Foundation. 2018-2022.

Evaluation of the Weinberg Center for Elder Justice's Shelter Model for Elder Abuse.

Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND will examine the impact of the shelter model on the Weinberg Center's clients who are known or expected to be victims of elder abuse. The effort will also include an estimate of avoided costs from the multisystemic approach to treatment and connection to services. Sponsor: The Hartford Foundation via The Weinberg Center (NYC). January-September 2020.

Reducing Violence in Communities: An In-Depth Study of Efforts in Durham, NC and Minneapolis, MN.

Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND will examine the highest-violence communities within Durham and Minneapolis as case studies to investigate two main research questions identified by NIJ: Why do some communities experience persistent violence in the face of multiple violence prevention and reduction efforts; and, What practical steps might produce enduring violence reductions in those communities? Sponsored by National Institute of Justice. January 2018-December 2021.

Evaluation of the Office on Violence Against Women's Sexual Assault Justice Initiative.

Role: Principal Investigator.

Conducting a process and outcomes evaluation on the OVW program to develop and implement innovative performance measures for prosecutors regarding sexual assault cases. Sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. January 2016-September 2020.

Designing and Conducting Impact Evaluations for Indigenous-Specific Initiatives Against Family Violence.

Role: Co-Principal Investigator with Ryan Brown.

The RAND Corporation is conducting an extensive process and outcome evaluation of programs implemented with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander populations to address family violence. Sponsored by Australian Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet. April 2017-April 2020.

Creating a Tabletop Exercise for Police-Community Relations.

Role: Principal Investigator.

RAND is working to create a tabletop exercise and associated toolkit that can be used by communities to bring together relevant stakeholders to start conversations around police-community relations. The exercise leads participants through various scenarios to challenge responses and create links between participants. Sponsored internally by RAND. 2016-2018.

Understanding Online Hate Speech as a Motivator and Predictor of Crime.

Role: Principal Investigator.

The RAND Corporation will conduct an analysis of online hate speech and assessment of the utility of such data for understanding where offline hate crimes are most likely to occur. RAND is partnering with two of the premier researchers on Twitter-based online hate speech at Cardiff University to conduct this research. Sponsored by National Institute of Justice. January 2017-December 2019.

Justice Innovation Center for Small, Rural, Tribal, and Border Agencies.

Role: Co-Principal Investigator with Jessica Saunders, March 2016-September 2018; Project team, January 2015-February 2016

National Institute of Justice funded RAND to lead the Justice Innovation Center (JIC) in order to better serve the needs of small, rural, tribal, and border (SRTB) criminal justice agencies. As PI of the project, oversee all center activities, develop strategic plans for center, conduct outreach, lead technology evaluations with SRTB agencies, and communicate regularly with NIJ.

Sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. January 2015-December 2018.

Assessing Allostatic Load in Stressed Communities.

Role: Project team

Principal Investigator: Anita Chandra.

Investigating community levels of stress through detailed case studies of communities that have experienced crises to understand their structural risk and protective factors. As lead for police-community relations cases, have conducted extensive interviews with stakeholders in two cities; will write up findings, contribute to expert panel on the topic, and produce final report. Sponsored by Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. January 2016-June 2018.

Evaluation of the BJA Firearm Locks Distribution Program.

Principal Investigator.

Conducting a process evaluation of the BJA Firearm Locks Distribution Program. Sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. October 2015-March 2019.

Research Partner for the Norfolk Project Safe Neighborhoods Program.

Role: Principal Investigator.

Provide research support and guidance to the Virginia Office of the Attorney General and partners of the PSN effort in Norfolk, VA. Subcontract to the VA OAG. Subcontract to the VA OAG. March 2015-December 2017.

Gangs, Social Networks, and Geography: Understanding the Factors Associated with Gang Desistance.

Role: Principal Investigator. Washington, DC site lead.

Study involved conducting a longitudinal study on changing social networks of gang-involved youth and the relationship of their networks to gang desistance. Data collection in Philadelphia, PA and Washington, DC. Sponsored by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. January 2012-May 2017.

SELECTED GRANTS/PROJECTS AT THE URBAN INSTITUTE

Evaluation of the City of Los Angeles' Gang Reduction and Youth Development program. Co-Principal Investigator with Jesse Jannetta. This evaluation assessed the process and the outcomes of the City of Los Angeles's Gang Reduction and Youth Development Strategy. The mature strategy has been implemented for several years, and the Urban Institute was the evaluator from 2013-2015. The evaluation addressed all elements of the strategy, considering outcomes at both the individual and community levels. Sponsored by the City of Los Angeles, CA. April 2013-February 2015. Budget: $940,000.

Assessment of Housing Authority of the City of Los Angeles's Community Safety Partnership. Co-Principal Investigator with Jesse Jannetta. This evaluation assessed the implementation and stakeholder perceptions of HACLA's pilot program. The program is being implemented in four public housing developments with significant public safety concerns, in the Watts and Boyle Heights sections of Los Angeles. Sponsored by the Housing Authority of the City of Los Angeles. February 2014-August 2014. Budget: $98,000.

Analyzing Crime Patterns and Trends in the Washington, DC Metropolitan Area: Documenting the Value of Cross-Agency and Cross-Jurisdictional Data Integration. Co-Principal Investigator with Nancy La Vigne. This pilot project was a comprehensive, cross-agency and inter-jurisdictional study to collect, integrate, and analyze crime and related demographic, land use, service delivery, and operational data across the greater Washington, DC, metropolitan area. The research assessed the utility of data integration efforts for criminal justice. Sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. January 2013-December 2015. Budget: $690,000.

Gangs, Social Networks, and Geography: Understanding the Factors Associated with Gang Desistance. Washington, DC site lead at Urban Institute. See above for full description.

Sponsored by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. January 2012-present. Budget: $325,000 (for Urban Institute).

Foreclosures and Crime: A Space-Time Analysis. Co-Principal Investigator with Kathy Pettit. Using data on foreclosures, crime, and other neighborhood measures in Miami, FL and Washington, D.C. over an eight-year period, this research considered the effects of the foreclosures and crime on each other through a dynamic systems approach, using simultaneous equation modeling. Sponsored by the National Institute of Justice. 2011- 2015. Budget: $255,000.

Delinquent Behavior and Social Networks of Youths in the District of Columbia. Sponsored by: Justice Grants Administration, District of Columbia Office of the Mayor (through the District of Columbia Crime Policy Institute), October 2010-September 2012. Budget: $100,000.
