
FIGURES

1.1. Flow of Funds in the Army's Stock Funding System . . .	3
2.1. Information a Company Commander Must Have to Answer the Question of How Much Money Is Available	10
2.2. Outputs of Other Processes Become Inputs to the Unit Financial Management Process	11
2.3. Simplified View of a Requisition Passing Through the Army Logistics Supply System	14
2.4. The Army Logistics Supply System with Financial System Interfaces	15
2.5. The Army Logistics System with Both Financial System Interfaces and Financial Checks	18
2.6. Map of the Credit Flows Process	20
2.7. Flow of Logistics and Financial Information into ILAP	23
2.8. Map of the End-of-Year Review Process at Fort Campbell	25
2.9. Map of the Army's Monthly Catalog Process	27
3.1. Example of Retail Stock Fund Manager's Attempt to Account for Price Differences	31
3.2. Frequency of Catalog Price Changes	32
3.3. Distribution of Price Changes in Actual Requisitions . .	34
3.4. Distribution of Catalog Price Changes in June and July 1999	35
3.5. How Prices Are Recorded in STARFIARS	39
3.6. Decision Tree of Army Retail Credit Policies	44
3.7. Many Returns Receiving Credit Had Low Dollar Value	47

3.8. FWT for Aviation Company at Fort Campbell	49
3.9. FWT for DS Maintenance, B Company of 526th Forward Support Battalion at Fort Campbell	49
A.1. Initial Tasks in Measuring a Process	69
B.1. Purchases of Class IX Reparables per System	76
B.2. Purchases of Class IX Reparables per Flying Hour/Vehicle Mile	77