
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The authors of this study had extensive discussions with knowledgeable aerospace professionals in many government and industry organizations. Many of these generously provided us with data for the study and shared their insights into the issues. They are too numerous to thank individually; we explicitly acknowledge here the organizations we visited and our principal points of contact in them. We offer an overall “thank you” to all those who shared information with us.

The government organizations we met with and our principal contacts were:

- Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Acquisition (SAF/AQ): Lieutenant General George K. Muellner (retired), General Gregory S. Martin, and Lieutenant General Stephen B. Plummer.
- Air Force Cost Analysis Agency: Joseph Kammerer, Director; John Dorsett, former Technical Director; and Jay Jordan, Technical Director.
- Joint Strike Fighter Program Office: Lieutenant General Leslie Kenne, former Director; Major General Michael Hough, Director; Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Dupré, Cost IPT Lead.
- Office of the Secretary of Defense, Program Analysis and Evaluation: Lieutenant Colonel David Nichols.
- Naval Air Systems Command, Patuxent River, Maryland: Roland Cochran.

We also wish to thank Jim Thompson from the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Industrial Affairs and Economic Analysis and our RAND colleague Fred Timson. Their thoughtful reviews occasioned many changes that improved the clarity of the report. In addition, we would like to thank Frances Abrams, Stephen Schwenker, and Robert Neff of the Air Force Research Laboratory's materials group for their inputs to the technical section of the report.

Finally, we acknowledge our RAND colleagues who worked either on this or on related projects and who made significant contributions to this research: Cynthia Cook, Mark Lorell, Michael McMahan, Daniel Raymer, Susan Resetar, Bob Roll, Jerry Sollinger, Don Stevens, and Stephanie Williamson. We would also like to thank Andi Fellows for her editorial help.
