INTRODUCTION

The Displaced New Orleans Residents Survey (DNORS) is a study of individuals and households that resided in the City of New Orleans, Louisiana, in August 2005, just before Hurricane Katrina struck (on 29 August 2005). Fieldwork for the study was conducted between mid-2009 and mid-2010. The aim of the study was to collect data for analyzing the location, living arrangements, health, and well-being of residents who were displaced by the hurricane. DNORS drew a sample of pre-Katrina dwellings of the city, identified the pre-storm residents of these dwellings, and tracked and interviewed these people wherever they lived at the time of the survey. In particular, DNORS interviewed pre-Katrina residents of New Orleans who had returned to the city as well as residents who had resettled elsewhere.

This document presents the questionnaires for the baseline wave of DNORS. The questionnaires include a screener, which was administered to any adult member of a sampled pre-Katrina dwelling (regardless of where they were currently residing), and a main questionnaire. The main questionnaire was designed as a single instrument to be administered to three different types of respondents: (1) a Household Respondent, (2) an Adult Respondent, or (3) an individual who was both the Household and the Adult Respondent. The Household Respondent was a knowledgeable member of the household (typically, the household head or that person's spouse or partner), who could report accurately on the pre-Katrina and current status of all pre-Katrina members of the household. The Adult Respondent was randomly selected from among all the pre-Katrina residents of the dwelling who were 18 years of age or older at the time of the DNORS interview. Adult respondents reported on their own pre-Katrina and current circumstances and on their own health and well-being. If the Adult respondent was a female with children, she was also asked detailed questions on the status and well-being of up to three randomly sampled children of hers that were less than 18 years of age at the time of the interview. The Household Respondent was eligible to be selected as the Adult Respondent, in which case an appropriate combination of questions was administered to this individual. There were two sampled respondents in households in which the Household Respondent was a different person to the Adult Respondent.

The development of the DNORS questionnaires was based on three general principles. First, questions and modules were drawn from other recent surveys, in order to facilitate comparisons with other samples and with nationally-representative data. DNORS also used validated mental health instruments to assess conditions such as depression, serious mental illness, and post-traumatic stress disorder as accurately as possible. Such questions and modules generally have been carefully evaluated and well-tested. Second, we sought to ask questions of the individuals who were best able to answer, based on their age, knowledge, and situation. For example, detailed information about children's behavior and well-being was only obtained from the children's mothers and only knowledgeable individuals were asked to provide proxy reports on other household members. Third, the questionnaires were designed to collect accurate data with the least burden to respondents. Thus, for example, addresses reported by the respondent were preloaded as possible responses for subsequent questions about place of residence. Fourth, the questions and response categories had to be understandable to all possible respondents, which included individuals who were illiterate, had little schooling, or limited comprehension ability. Although the questionnaires were interviewer-administered over the telephone or in-person, they were carefully checked for the ease with which respondents would be able to understand the questions and responses. Finally, questionnaire skip-patterns and randomization routines were carefully checked and extensively tested to make sure that worked as intended.

Table 1. DNORS Questionnaire Modules and Sections Completed By Respondent Type

Questionnaire module/section	Respondent
Screener Questionnaire	Any knowledgeable pre-Katrina resident of the sampled dwelling 18+ years of age
Household/Adult Questionnaire
A. Introduction and consent	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
B. Household information	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
C. Household members
Questions about self	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
Questions about other household members	HH and HH/Adult Respondents
Child Module (Sections CA – CE)	Female HH/A or Adult Respondents with 1+ children less than 18 years of age at the time of the interview
D. Traumatic experiences and losses	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
F. Health	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
H. Mental illness scale	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
L. Post-traumatic stress disorder	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
G. Depression	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
J. Perceived stress	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
M. Household income	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents
N. Contact Information	HH, HH/Adult, and Adult Respondents

Table 1 summarizes the specific DNORS questionnaire modules and sections that were completed by different respondents. All questionnaire modules and sections were administered to female Adult or Household/Adult respondents with children under 18 years of age; other Household and Household/Adult respondents completed every module except the Child Module, while the remaining Adult respondents also skipped questions about other household members. There are several questions in Section C that are asked only about respondents themselves—even if they were Household or the Household/Adult respondents. For example, information on self-employment earnings and occupation and industry of employment were only administered to respondents themselves, even though these questions appear in a section where all other questions are asked about every pre-Katrina household member. On the other hand, information on Adult Respondents' circumstances was self-reported by the Adult Respondent and proxy-reported by the Household Respondent.

Scales in the DNORS Questionnaire

Various scales were collected in the DNORS questionnaires, focusing primarily on psychological well-being. The scales are summarized in Table 2.

Table 2. Scales Used in the DNORS Questionnaire

Domain	Scale	Questionnaire items
Child behavior problems	Behavior Problem Index (BPI)	CE1 – CE1ff
Mental illness	K6	H1a – H1f
Post-traumatic stress disorder	PTSD Checklist (PCL)	L1 – L18
Major depression	Patient Health Questionnaire (PHQ-9)	G1 – G10
Psychological stress	Perceived Stress Scale (PSS)	J1 – J4

The child Behavior Problems Index (BPI), developed by Peterson and Zill from the more extensive Achenbach Behavior Problems Checklist,[1] was administered in the DNORS Child Module. There are a number of different versions of the Child BPI available; DNORS used the version from the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) Child Development Supplement.

The K6 scale of non-specific psychological distress was used to screen for anxiety and mood disorders in the previous 30 days.[2] The K6 is widely used in the U.S. as a screener for mental illness, and has been used in other research to examine the psychological effects of Hurricane Katrina. It has been shown to provide good validity in assessing mental illness.

The PTSD Checklist (PCL) was used to assess Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).[3] The PCL includes 17 questions that correspond to each of the single items that together comprise the symptoms of PTSD from the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders—Fourth Edition (DSM-IV). The PCL is focused on respondents' stressful experiences related to Hurricane Katrina.

The nine-item Patient Health Questionnaire (PHQ-9) was used to assess major depression.[4] The PHQ-9 assesses symptoms and functional impairment, in order to determine the likelihood a respondent has major depression, and also assesses the severity of the respondent's symptoms. The PHQ-9 is based on the diagnostic criteria from the DSM-IV.

DNORS used the Perceived Stress Scale (PSS) to assess respondents' experiences of psychological stress.[5] The PSS items were designed to assess the degree to which respondents found the circumstances in their lives to be unpredictable, uncontrollable, and overloaded. It provides a general measure of perceived stress, rather than the experience as a result of specific stressor. DNORS used a 4-item version of the scale.

Origin of the DNORS Questions

The origins of the item in the DNORS questionnaire are identified next to each question. A number of questions were original and others were modified from versions used in other surveys. But many questions were taken verbatim from other surveys, although in some cases there were minor wording changes (most of which are noted) to correct obvious errors or problems. Even the questions identified as original often were inspired by those used in other surveys, although a specific survey was not identified as the source unless there was a close connection. Table 3 lists the main questionnaire sources for the DNORS questionnaire and the web sites for the corresponding surveys.

Other Survey Features

The DNORS questionnaire featured a complete set of soft-checks and hard-checks that were designed to reduce errors in respondents' reports and in interviewers' recording of these reports. In addition, all address information was collected using an instant address lookup software package called QAS,[6] which verified the accuracy of reported addresses

SECTION A: INTRODUCTION AND CONSENT

A0. (Hello, my name is [Iwer Name] and I am calling on behalf of the RAND Gulf States Policy Institute from the University of Michigan. We are conducting a survey about the effects of Katrina on people who lived in New Orleans before the Hurricane.)
- If Necessary: (The goal of this study is to understand how Katrina has affected people who lived in New Orleans. Researchers and community groups will use results from the study to help design better services for people affected by the hurricane.)
- ENTER [1] to continue

A1. (Before I begin, are you at least 18 years old?)
       1. Yes
       5. No [Suspend interview—contact your Team Leader if the Respondent selected is not actually 18 years old]
       DK/RF [Suspend interview—contact your Team Leader if the Respondent selected is not actually 18 years old]
Question type: Enumerated; Range 1 and 5

A2. Please remember that your participation is voluntary. Your responses to these questions will be kept confidential, and your answers will be presented together with answers from others to report the overall results for people from New Orleans. But you can also refuse to answer any questions you would rather not answer or stop the interview at any time. For quality control purposes, we would like to record this interview.
As a token of appreciation we will send you a check for $30 upon completion of the interview.
If you have any questions, you can contact the University of Michigan on our toll free number at 1-800-759-7947. Should you have any concerns regarding your rights as a research participant, you may call the RAND Human Subjects Protection Committee at 310-393-0411, Ext. 6124.

CHILD MODULE

Programming Rules:
1. Only Adult Respondents are eligible—either Adult-only Respondent or Adult/Household Respondent
2. Only female respondents are eligible: C4 = 2
3. Must be the mother of one or more children under 18 years of age: C33 = 1 or > 1. If C33 = 0
 → GO TO Next Section

SECTION CA. SCREENER AND LISTING OF CHILDREN

CA1. CAPI CHECK: Was respondent selected as an Adult Respondent, is the respondent female, and does she have one or more children (check C33)?
    1. YES TO ALL
    5. No → SKIP ENTIRE CHILD MODULE

Fill table of children from questions C33, C35, C36, and C36a for all children less than 18 years of age (based on response to C35 or C36). Include in the table:
 • Child age (from C35 or C36)
 • Child sex (from C35 or C36)
Randomly sample up to 3 children from this table—only select children under 18 years of age

Now, we are going to ask some questions about your child[ren].

My computer has selected the following children for some additional questions.

Name. Could you please tell me the first name of [this/each] child?

Age. (What is [CHILD]'s current age?)

Gender. What is [CHILD]'s gender?

SECTION N: CONTACT INFORMATION

N_Intro. That's all the survey questions I have, but now I need to get some information to help us contact you in the future. We may want to interview you again in a couple of years. This information, like your responses to all questions in the interview, is completely confidential.
- If necessary: You are very important to this study. Your experiences over the next few years will be very important in understanding how families who experienced Katrina are doing. We will only contact you about the survey, and you can decide if you want to participate at that time.
